The Faculty of the Centenary College believe that the intellect of man ought never to be measured by years, and that there ought to be in an institution of learning regularly organized, every facility and encouragement granted to those who are diligent and meritorious. Experience has taught us, that there are in this part of our country, but a few preparatory schools where students are properly prepared to enter college. Some are prepared to enter the higher classes in Latin, but not in Greek. Some are prepared in these languages but not in Mathematics, and English education has been generally most shamefully neglected.

Under these circumstances, we think that an adherence to a plan, which would induce the public to suppose that we have assigned specific studies to a particular year—such as the Freshmen, Sophomore, Junior or Senior year would be improper.—We have, therefore, after considerable experience and mature deliberation, arranged our classes according to that plan which is adopted by some of the first Colleges and Universities in the world.

1. Our College consists of six schools, as announced in the publication of the Trustees. 2. These schools are divided into two classes each, called the Senior and Junior, or first and second classes; and these may be subdivided into as many sections as may suit the convenience of each Professor, and tend to the advancement of the students. Every student will have an opportunity of attending upon the instructions of each Professor until prepared to graduate, which he may do whenever he can stand a respectable examination in the entire collegiate course of study adopted by us. And whether it shall take one year or seven to prepare a student to sustain this examination, with credit to himself and us, until he can do it, he will not be permitted to graduate in the Centenary College. According to this plan also, a student who is deficient in any study, will be brought up in the shortest possible time, by regular and daily recitations: and the Faculty have arranged the hours for the recitations and lectures accordingly.

In submitting for the inspection of the public, this, our course of study, which we believe equal in extent to any in the United States, and some of the general regulations of the Trustees respecting the reception of students and their government, we do most solemnly and sincerely pledge ourselves to our patrons and the public, that we will not grant the honors of the College to any that are not well educated; but that they may accomplish their educations as soon as is consistent and possible, they shall receive every encouragement and facility from us.

COURSE OF STUDY.

PREPARATORY SCHOOL.

Smith's English Grammar, Walker's Dictionary, Woodbridge's Geography, Davies' Arithmetic and Bailey's Algebra, Adams' Latin Grammar, Latin Reader, Leverett's Latin Tutor, Cæsar's Commentaries, Ovid, (4 Books,) Sallust, Dillaway's Mythology, Fisk's Greek Grammar and Exercises, Jacob's Greek Reader, (prose part.)

SCHOOL OF ENGLISH LITERATURE.

Murray's Larger Grammar Key and Exercises, Woodbridge's Geography reviewed, Jamieson's Rhetoric and Porter's Rhetorical Reader, Tytler's History, large edition, (2 vols.) Bancroft's History United States, (4 volumes.)

SCHOOL OF ANCIENT LANGUAGES.

LATIN—Latin Tutor, (completed,) Cicero's Orations, Cooper's Virgil, Folsom's Livy, Horace, (Gould's) Cicero de Oratore, Tacitus, Terence.

GREEK—Græca Majora, vol. 1, Excerpta Historica, Miscellania, Rhetorica, Critica, Fisk's Greek Exercises, Græca

Majora, vol. 2, Lyrics, &c., Sophocles, Euripides, Homer's Iliad, (6 books,) Æchines and Demosthenes De Corona.

Eschenberg's Manual and Anthon's Classical Dictionary, will be useful for reference, and examinations in Ancient Geography, and Grecian and Roman History, with an ancient atlas. The students will be regularly exercised in Prosody and Latin, and Greek Composition.

SCHOOL OF MATHEMATICS.

Algebra, Plane Geometry and Trigonometry, Mensuration of Planes, Surveying, Solid Geometry, Mensuration of Solids, Navigation, Analytical Geometry and Conic Sections, Spherical Trigonometry, Deferential and Integral Calculus, Descriptive Geometry and Civil Engineering, (when required.) The Mathematical Principles of Natural Philosophy and Astronomy.

TEXT BOOKS—Davies' Mathematical course, (6 vols.)—Olmsted's Natural Philosophy, (2 vols)—Olmsted's Astronomy.

The practical application of Mathematics will be taught in connection with the theory, and occasional lectures will be given on the History of Mathematical discovery.

Cuvier's Natural History, Good's Book of Nature, Smellie's Philosophy of Natural History, Brown's Conchological Text Book, Eaton's Botany, Olmsted's Natural Philosophy, Kane's Chemistry, and Gross' General Anatomy, translated from the French of Bayle and Hollard.

SCHOOL OF MEDICINE.

Horner's Special Anatomy, Duglinson's Physiology, Kane's Chemistry, Materia Medica and United States Dispensatory, by Wood and Bache, Dorsey and Gibson's Surgery, Dewee's Obsteterics, Cullen's Practice, Chapman's Theraputics, Good's Study of Medicine, and Duglinson's Practice.

The Library for general reading in this Department is extensive.

SCHOOL OF LAW.

Say's Political Economy, Burlamaqui on the Law of Nature and Nations, Vattel on International Law, Blackstone's Commentary, with references to Kent's Commentary, Jones and Starkie on Bailments, Stephens and Gilbert on Pleading, Starkey on Evidence, Chitty on Contracts, Chitty Jr. on Bills, Story on the Constitution, Story on the Conflict of Laws, Tillinghast's Abstract on Ejectments, Toller's Law of Executors, Russell on Crimes, Maddock's Chancery and Cooper's Equity Pleading, Rutherforth's Institutes, and Cooper's Justinian.

SCHOOL OF MORAL AND INTELLECTUAL SCIENCES AND SACRED LITERATURE.

Abercrombie's Intellectual Powers, Hedge's Logic, and Upham's Mental Philosophy, large edition, (2 vols.,) Paley's Moral Science, and Sullivan's Moral Class Book, Paley's Evidences of Christianity and Natural Theology, Butler's Analogy and Jahn's Archæology, with regular recitations in Prideaux and Geisler.

In this school the students will also read Cicero de Officiis, with selections from the Hebrew and Septuagint version of the Old and Greek of the New Testament.

All the students in the Institution will declaim publicly; those of the Senior Class will deliver their own composition. The Modern Languages will be taught when required. All the students will be required to prepare regular recitations in those branches of study in which they are engaged; but the Professors will deliver lectures in their respective departments for the benefit of all the classes. Those of the Professor of Natural Sciences and Medicine, will be accompanied with experiments in Natural Philosophy and Chemistry, and examinations from preparations in Anatomy.

THE COLLEGIATE YEAR consists of ten months, beginning on the first of October, and ending on the Wednesday before the last Thursday in July, which is Commencement day.

EXPENSES.

In the Schools of Languages, Mathematics, Natural and Moral Sciences,	$50 00
In the Schools of Medicine and Law, each,	$75 00

Medical and Law Students will have the privilege of attending to the other schools without charge.

The tuition must be paid in advance. The matriculation fee, which is to be paid but once by each student entering the institution, is $5; to which will be added a small amount, entitled contingent expenses, for Medicine, Printing, Janitor's services, &c., estimated at about $3. No charges are made for medical attendance, the Professor in charge of the Medical School, prescribes for the students when sick, gratis.

The price for board and washing is $10 a month, payable monthly, in advance.

The parents or guardians of students under age, who do not reside at the college, must select for such students, from among the Professors or others at the college, a patron, who shall manage their financial concerns; and such students shall pay over to the Patron whatever sums they may from time to time receive, whether for college expenses or pocket money. Parents and guardians are most respectfully requested not to permit their sons or wards to have much pocket money. There is no necessity for it here, and it is, generally, not only an unnecessary expenditure, but a serious injury.

LIBRARIES.

Some valuable books have been presented to the Institution as the foundation of a library, and the Professors have good libraries.

SOCIETIES.

Two literary societies have been regularly organized among the students.

PUBLIC WORSHIP.

All the students are required to attend morning prayers at sunrise, evening prayers at 5 o'clock, each day, in the Chapel, and public worship on the sabbath.

NOTICE TO PARENTS AND GUARDIANS.

Quarterly general reports are sent to Parents and Guardians of the standing of their sons and wards, but special reports when occasion may require it. No one who shall be found incurably indolent, extravagant, or of bad morals, can remain a member of the Institution; and whilst the discipline shall be as nearly parental as possible, it will, at the same time, be strict and impartial.

Irregular students, by paying college fees, may pursue any of the collegiate studies, and recite with the regular classes; provided they shall have at least three daily recitations, but no student who does not pursue a regular course of study can receive the honors of the college.

Meritorious young men who may be unable to bear the expenses of an education, can be received on condition of paying their tuition fees, without interest, two years after they shall have left the Institution, and shall never be sued on the debt thus incurred.

The order respecting the payment of bills is, first, for tuition; next, for books; then for board; and afterwards, other bills in the order of their presentation.

Parents and Guardians are most earnestly requested not to permit their sons and wards to leave college during the session, in any case whatever where circumstances do not render it absolutely necessary. Absence from their studies is a serious injury to all concerned. It subjects the Faculty to great inconvenience, the Classes to derangement, and the students themselves to actual loss.

No deduction can be made for any time lost from the day of admission to the close of the session, except when the student is prevented by protracted illness from remaining in the college. is dismissed or expelled.

Whenever a student can pass a satisfactory examination on the studies of the entire course, he shall be allowed to graduate. The diligent and meritorious student shall be advanced as rapidly as may be compatible with the acquisition of a thorough education.

N. B. Books and stationary can be obtained at the college.

BOARDING HOUSES.

Mr. G. FELDER is the Steward; but besides the Public Hall, there are several good private boarding houses, at which students can be accommodated.
